EXEMPTION

Application No. A85/2010

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal (the Tribunal) has considered an application, pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 (the Act), by the Western Suburbs Indigenous Gathering Place Association (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ an Indigenous male as a Men's Health Worker (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application, including the affidavit of Colleen Joyce Marion, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant is a non-profit organisation which is committed to responding to the needs of Indigenous people in Melbourne's western suburbs. The applicant offers spiritual, emotional, health and social care. It also provides quality health, welfare and educational services for all family members.
- The position of Men's Health Worker fits within the applicant's Healthy for Life program. That program aims to enhance the capacity of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander primary health care services to improve the quality of child and maternal health services, men's health and chronic disease care and over time to reduce the incidence of adult chronic disease in Indigenous communities.
- The Men's Health Worker's role includes responsibility for developing programs that raise awareness and understanding of chronic illness and for assisting male clients to develop strategies to prevent the development of conditions including, in particular, diabetes.

- The applicant believes that Indigenous males will feel more comfortable speaking to another Indigenous male regarding health issues and so an Indigenous male is required for the role to maximise the success of the position within the applicant organisation. The successful appointee will have a sound knowledge of Indigenous culture and experience working with Indigenous communities and demonstrate an ability to see issues from the perspective of people from the local Indigenous community.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 30 June 2013.

EXEMPTION

Application No. A159/2010

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal (the Tribunal) has considered an application, pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 (the Act), by North Yarra Community Health (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander (ATSI) person in the position of Billabong Coordinator (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application, including the affidavit of Kristine Olaris, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The Billabong Program is a weekly outreach program which targets the marginalised, largely homeless population of ATSI people who live in or frequent the City of Yarra. The program is provided by a partnership of health and welfare services and mainstream and Aboriginal controlled organisations.

- The role of Billabong Coordinator has been in place since January 2009 and came about after an evaluation of the Program in 2008 by Onemda VicHealth Koori Health Unit at the University of Melbourne. The evaluation involved considerable consultation with the ATSI people who are the target group of the program as well as with workers. A major recommendation of the evaluation was the appointment of an ATSI person to coordinate the program. The role includes coordinating the weekly program, coordination of additional events such as cultural celebrations like NAIDOC Week in the Park and engagement with program attendees including assisting them to follow up on their health and welfare needs. The Coordinator will also have a strong role in advocating for the local ATSI population.
- In order to undertake this role in a culturally sensitive and respectful way, and in order to ensure the person is successful in this role, it is essential that a person who has experience and knowledge of land, family, culture, and kinship networks within the ATSI community is appointed.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 30 June 2013.

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal (the Tribunal) has considered an application, pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 (the Act), by Department of Health (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person as a Project Officer Aboriginal Health (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application, including the affidavit of Daniel James, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- In April 2002 the Council of Australian Governments commissioned a Steering Committee to produce a regular report about key indicators of Indigenous disadvantage. The report's objective is to inform Australian governments about whether policy programs and interventions are achieving positive outcomes for Aboriginal people. A survey undertaken by the Australian Government's Productivity Commission in 2005, which focussed on Aboriginal labour force participation and unemployment as an indicator of living standards and overall wellbeing, found that in 2002 52.1% of all Indigenous people aged 18 years and over were participating in the labour force, compared with 67.2% of non-Indigenous people.
- In May 2009 the Victorian State Government announced four year funding to be committed towards the Australian Health National Partnership. Some of that funding has been allocated towards addressing Aboriginal health workforce needs over the next four years in part through the Closing the Gap initiative.
- The Project Officer Aboriginal Health position has been developed to work on information, data and data systems with Aboriginal communities and plays an important role in the collection of quality information to inform the development strategies and activities for improved outcomes for Victoria's Aboriginal community. Other aspects of the role are working collaboratively with Aboriginal workforce external to the applicant and within government and building and maintaining positive relationships with the Aboriginal community. The Project Officer will assist the Closing the Health Gap committees by providing crucial information to support and monitor outcomes in regional implementation plans.

- The Project Officer will work with Aboriginal communities, Aboriginal Controlled Community Organisations, health service providers and staff from a variety of Government and non government organisations. The credibility of the incumbent in the eyes of the Aboriginal community will be a critical factor in terms of the person's ability to effect the role. The credibility of the incumbent is influenced by the degree to which that person can be trusted by Aboriginal communities. That in turn is influenced by historical events such as those relating to the 'Stolen Generations'. In discussions about Aboriginal health and wellbeing an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person is afforded a much higher degree of trust than a person not of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander descent. A way in which Aboriginal communities believe that trust is built between communities and Government organisations is through the employment of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander people in positions which are intended to bridge the cultural divide and positively impact on Aboriginal people's health and wellbeing. Accordingly, an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person is sought to fill this role.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 30 June 2013.

'prescribed agency' has the same meaning as in the ESC Act;

'regulated industry' has the same meaning as in the ESC Act.

VICTORIAN WORKCOVER AUTHORITY
WorkSafe's General Prosecution Guidelines

WorkSafe issues the following general guidelines for, or with respect to, the prosecution of offences under Victoria's accident compensation and occupational health and safety laws.

Victoria's accident compensation and occupational health and safety laws include the following Acts of Parliament and the regulations made under those Acts:

- Occupational Health and Safety Act 1985 (the old OHS Act)
- Occupational Health and Safety Act 2004 (the OHS Act)
- Dangerous Goods Act 1985 (the DG Act)
- Road Transport (Dangerous Goods) Act 1995 (the RT Act)
- Equipment (Public Safety) Act 1994 (the EPS Act)

In these guidelines, the above Acts are collectively referred to as Victoria's 'health and safety' laws.

- Accident Compensation Act 1985 (the AC Act)
- Accident Compensation (WorkCover Insurance) Act 1993 (the ACWI Act)

In these guidelines, the above Acts are collectively referred to as Victoria's 'compensation' laws.

These general guidelines are intended to guide WorkSafe in the exercise of its prosecutorial discretion. Failure by WorkSafe to act in accordance with these guidelines does not affect the validity of WorkSafe's prosecutions.

These general guidelines are published in the Victoria Government Gazette in accordance with the requirements of the AC Act, the old OHS Act, the OHS Act, the DG Act and EPS Act. They are also published on WorkSafe's website, worksafe.vic.gov.au, and incorporated in WorkSafe's Compliance and Enforcement Policy (a broader policy document that places these guidelines in context, as part of WorkSafe's overall compliance and enforcement functions).

WorkSafe's constructive compliance strategy

WorkSafe balances the use of positive motivators and deterrence measures to improve workplace health and safety and return to work and to prevent abuse of the scheme.

WorkSafe provides advice, information, education and financial and other incentives to encourage compliance with Victoria's health and safety and compensation laws. Where compliance is not achieved, enforcement tools may be used to secure compliance. In some cases, a prosecution will be initiated to deal with a breach. WorkSafe also has a range of other enforcement tools it can use depending on the nature and type of the breach (full details of which can be found in WorkSafe's Compliance and Enforcement Policy).

Consistent with WorkSafe's organisational values, its compliance and enforcement activities should be constructive, accountable, transparent and effective, and its enforcement actions should be targeted, proportionate, consistent and fair.

Key aim of prosecutions

The key aim of WorkSafe's health and safety prosecutions is to deter non-compliance with Victoria's health and safety laws and to prevent workplace and work-related deaths, injuries and disease. Prosecution action may be taken whether or not a breach has resulted in death, injury or disease. Related aims of prosecution action include the promotion of good occupational health and safety (OHS) values and practices and, where relevant, organisational rehabilitation.

The key aim of WorkSafe's accident compensation prosecutions is to encourage compliance and to maintain the integrity of the accident compensation scheme.

Strategic enforcement priorities – target areas

Prior to determining whether to prosecute (or take any other form of enforcement action), WorkSafe will undertake inquiries to determine whether a breach has occurred and to gather information that may assist in preventing future breaches. In the case of compensation matters, inquiries may also be aimed at determining WorkSafe's liability to pay compensation.

An inquiry or investigation may be triggered by a range of sources, including complaints, referrals from other agencies and WorkSafe's proactive activities, for example, workplace inspections.

WorkSafe sets strategic priorities for its compliance and enforcement activities. Inquiries or investigations and any appropriate enforcement actions will usually occur in the following target areas:

Target areas for prosecutions under health and safety laws

1. Work-related fatalities.
2. Incidents involving serious injury or an immediate risk to health and safety where there appears to be a high degree of culpability; for example, cases involving:
 - reckless conduct that endangers or may endanger persons at work
 - failure to control risks despite previous warnings or knowledge
 - repeat offending
 - failures to control risks that occur over a sustained period of time
 - significant departures from widely known or accepted safe systems of work.
3. WorkSafe's focus areas for prevention and deterrence, as determined by WorkSafe in its published strategies and business plans; for example:
 - high-hazard and high-risk industries and occupations (eg construction, farming and transport)
 - common injury types (eg musculoskeletal injuries).
4. Failure to comply with a notice or direction given by an inspector or WorkSafe, especially where the risk that was the subject of the notice or direction:
 - still exists at the workplace
 - was 'passed on' to others without adequate warning (eg supplied to another worksite without adequate warning), or
 - was not remedied until a significant time after the date specified in the notice or direction.
5. Offences against WorkSafe inspectors:
 - hindering, obstructing, concealing evidence from a WorkSafe inspector or preventing a person from assisting a WorkSafe inspector
 - assaulting, intimidating, threatening a WorkSafe inspector or a person assisting a WorkSafe inspector
 - impersonating a WorkSafe inspector.
6. Offences against Health and Safety representatives (or committees), including refusals by employers to:
 - allow OHS training as specified in a WorkSafe determination
 - meet the obligations to health and safety representatives (eg access to information, interviews, time and facilities)
 - establish a health and safety committee.
7. Offences against or by authorised representatives of registered employee organisations:
 - offences by authorised representatives
 - hindering, obstructing, intimidating an authorised representative
 - impersonating an authorised representative.
8. Discrimination or threats to discriminate against employees or potential employees for any action in relation to occupational health and safety; for example, being a health and safety representative.

9. Coercion in negotiations relating to the establishment of designated workgroups of workers.
10. Failure to notify WorkSafe of 'notifiable incidents' and failing to preserve incident sites when required to do so.
11. DG Act offences that involve:
 - substantial damage to property
 - high consequence dangerous goods
 - breaches of Governor-in-Council orders that impose an absolute prohibition in relation to dangerous goods.
12. EPS Act offences, especially breaches of Governor-in-Council orders that impose an absolute prohibition in relation to prescribed equipment.
13. Other target areas as published from time to time by WorkSafe.

Target areas for prosecutions under compensation laws

1. Offences involving dishonesty by workers, employers and those who provide services to injured workers (eg health professionals).
2. Failures by employers to comply with the return to work obligations set out in Part VIIIB of the AC Act, eg to plan a worker's return to work, to consult about a worker's return to work and to provide employment to injured workers to the extent that it is reasonable to do so.
3. Offences by employers that unduly delay or complicate a worker's access to entitlements or appropriate treatment, eg failing to make weekly payments.
4. Discrimination or threats to discriminate against workers for making or pursuing claims for compensation or giving notice of injury.
5. Offences against return to work inspectors and other persons authorised to exercise powers for WorkSafe.
6. Breaches by self-insurers.
7. Premium evasion.

Compensation and health and safety laws impose a range of obligations on a range of people. WorkSafe considers the role of all duty holders in assessing whether they have complied with their obligations.

Enforcement criteria

In relation to many offences, the time for WorkSafe to bring charges against a person for an offence is limited; for example:

- WorkSafe is required to bring charges for indictable offences against the OHS Act within two years of the offence being committed or WorkSafe becoming aware that an offence has been committed, unless the Director of Public Prosecutions (DPP) agrees to an extension of time.
- WorkSafe is required to bring charges for certain offences under the Accident Compensation Act 1985 within three years from the date of the alleged offence.
- Prosecutions for summary offences must be brought within 12 months of the alleged offence, except where otherwise provided by law.

Where a WorkSafe investigation reveals evidence of a breach, WorkSafe will consider whether a prosecution should be commenced or another form of enforcement action should be taken.

WorkSafe may decide to seek advice from, or consult with, the DPP when considering what, if any, enforcement action should be taken. When appropriate, WorkSafe can also refer matters to the DPP for it to prosecute.

In deciding on the most appropriate enforcement action to take, WorkSafe is guided by the following two paramount considerations:

- whether there is sufficient evidence to support enforcement action
- the public interest.

Sufficient evidence

When considering whether there is sufficient evidence to support a prosecution (as opposed to other forms of enforcement action), WorkSafe adopts the considerations, as published from time to time, in the Australian Prosecutorial Guidelines (APG), in particular:

Reasonable prospect of conviction

‘The initial consideration...is whether the evidence is sufficient to justify the institution or continuation of a prosecution.’ (APG 2)

‘A prosecution should not be instituted or continued unless there is admissible, substantial, and reliable evidence that a criminal offence known to the law has been committed by the alleged offender... a bare prima facie case is not enough.’ (APG 2–3)

‘Once it is established that there is a prima facie case, it is then necessary to give consideration to the prospects of conviction. A prosecution should not proceed if there is no reasonable prospect of a conviction being secured.’ (APG 3)

Matters to be taken into account

‘The decision whether there is a reasonable prospect of conviction requires an evaluation of how strong the case is likely to be when presented in court. It must take into account such matters as:

- the availability, competence and credibility of witnesses and their likely impression on the arbiter of fact
- the admissibility of any alleged confession or other evidence
- any lines of defence which are plainly open to, or have been indicated by, the alleged offender
- any other facts which in the view of the prosecutor could affect the likelihood or otherwise of a conviction.’ (APG 4)

Evaluation of the evidence

When evaluating the evidence, regard should be given to the following matters (APG 6):

Grounds for exclusion of evidence

‘(a) Are there grounds for believing the evidence may be excluded, bearing in mind the principles of admissibility at common law and under statute?’

Admissions

‘(b) If the case depends in part on the admissions by the alleged offender, are there any grounds for believing that they are of doubtful reliability having regard to the age, intelligence and apparent understanding of the alleged offender?’

Reliability and credibility of witnesses

‘(c) Does it appear that a witness is exaggerating, or that his or her memory is faulty, or that the witness is either hostile or friendly to the defendant, or may be otherwise unreliable?’

‘(d) Does the witness have a motive for telling less than the whole truth?’

‘(e) Are there matters that might properly be put to a witness by the defence to attack his or her credibility?’

‘(f) What sort of impression is the witness likely to make? How is the witness likely to stand up to cross-examination? Does the witness suffer from any physical or mental disability that is likely to affect his or her credibility?’

‘(g) If there is a conflict between eyewitnesses, does it go beyond what one would expect and hence materially weaken the case?’

‘(h) If there is a lack of conflict between eyewitnesses, is there anything that causes suspicion that a false story may have been concocted?’

Availability of witnesses

‘(i) Are all the necessary witnesses available and competent to give evidence, including any who may be abroad? Is any witness likely to obtain an exemption from giving evidence pursuant to s 18 of the Evidence Act 2008?’

Child witnesses

‘(j) Where child witnesses are involved, are they likely to be able to give sworn evidence or, if not, is there corroboration in some material particular by some other evidence implicating the alleged offender?’

Identification issues

‘(k) If identity is likely to be an issue, how cogent and reliable is the evidence of those who purport to identify the alleged offender?’

Multiple defendants

‘(l) Where two or more alleged offenders are charged together, is there a realistic prospect of the proceedings being severed? If so, is the admissible evidence sufficient to prove the case against each alleged offender should separate trials be ordered?’

When considering whether there is sufficient evidence to support other forms of enforcement action, WorkSafe is guided by its legal advisers on a case by case basis.

Public interest

Where WorkSafe believes there is sufficient evidence to support enforcement action being taken, consideration will then be given to whether it is in the public interest for WorkSafe to take such action.

WorkSafe adopts the considerations as published from time to time in the APG, in particular:

- ‘It has never been the rule...that suspected criminal offences must automatically be subject to prosecution...(Prosecution should occur) whenever it appears that the offence or the circumstances of its commission is or are of such a nature that a prosecution in respect thereof is required in the public interest. That is still the dominant consideration.’ (APG 1)
- ‘The decision whether or not to prosecute is the most important step in the prosecution process. In every case, great care must be taken in the interests of the victim, the suspected offender, and the community at large to ensure that the right decision is made. A wrong decision to either prosecute or not to prosecute, both tend to undermine the confidence of the community in the criminal justice system.’ (APG 2)
- ‘Having satisfied himself or herself that the evidence is sufficient to justify the institution or continuation of a prosecution, the prosecutor must then consider whether, in light of the provable facts and the whole of the surrounding circumstances, the public interest requires a prosecution to be pursued. It is not the rule that all offences brought to the attention of the authorities must be prosecuted.’ (APG 7)
- ‘...Generally speaking the more serious the offence, the less likely it will be that the public interest will not require that a prosecution be pursued.’ (APG 8)
- ‘Although there may be mitigating factors present in a particular case, often the proper decision will be to proceed with a prosecution and for those factors to be put to the court in mitigation of sentence. Nevertheless, where the offence is not so serious as plainly to require prosecution the prosecutor should also apply his or her mind to whether the public interest requires a prosecution to be pursued.’ (APG 10)

WorkSafe takes into account the following when deciding whether enforcement action is appropriate and in the public interest:

1. The nature and circumstances of the alleged offence, including:
 - the seriousness of the alleged offence and the level of public concern about the alleged offence
 - the extent of the risk posed by the alleged offence to workers, employers or the scheme generally
 - the actual or potential consequences of the alleged offence (eg in the case of a health and safety offence, the extent of any injury caused to a person)
 - the prevalence of the alleged offence
 - any mitigating or aggravating features of the alleged offending.
2. The characteristics of the alleged offender, including:
 - the extent to which the alleged offender has acted in accordance with any advice given by WorkSafe in relation to its obligations
 - the alleged offender's compliance history (including the alleged offender's response to any previous WorkSafe enforcement and prevention activities)
 - the attitude of the alleged offender(s) (including any proactive steps taken to comply or efforts to make restitution for any loss caused by the offence)
 - the alleged offender's age, intelligence, health and any special infirmity
 - whether the alleged offender co-operated in the investigation or prosecution of the case, including the investigation or prosecution of others or is prepared to do so.
3. The impact of the alleged offence on others; for example:
 - any person who has been injured or exposed to risk
 - the family of any person who has died as a result of the alleged offence
 - any witnesses.
4. The impact of the alleged offence on the scheme, eg the extent of any financial losses suffered by the scheme as a result of the alleged offence.
5. The need for general deterrence – reducing the likelihood that others will commit similar offences.
6. The need for specific deterrence – reducing the likelihood that the alleged offender will commit further breaches.
7. The effect of prosecution, including:
 - the likely outcome in the event of a finding of guilt, having regard to the sentencing options available to the court
 - the availability and efficacy of alternatives to prosecution
 - whether the consequences of any resulting finding of guilt would be unduly harsh or oppressive
 - any entitlement to criminal compensation, reparation or forfeiture if prosecution action is taken.
8. The need to maintain public confidence in the administration of the law and the scheme, including considering whether enforcement action could be perceived as counter-productive, eg by bringing the law into disrepute.
9. The likely length and cost of taking enforcement action.
10. When the alleged offence occurred.

Notification of WorkSafe's enforcement decisions

When WorkSafe makes a decision as to what, if any, enforcement action will be taken following an investigation, WorkSafe will generally notify the following parties of the decision:

- the alleged offender
- the complainant
- the person who was injured or exposed to an immediate risk (health and safety)
- the family of a person who died as a result of the alleged breach (health and safety)
- witnesses who have provided statements to WorkSafe.

If a prosecution is brought, WorkSafe will also notify these parties of the outcome.

Sentencing options

Where a prosecution results in a finding of guilt, a range of sentencing options is available to the court. Depending on the nature of the offence, these may include fines, imprisonment, adverse publicity orders and orders to undertake improvement projects. WorkSafe will seek sentencing dispositions that balance its aims of general and specific deterrence with the circumstances of each individual case.

Where appropriate, WorkSafe will also:

- apply for other orders – eg restitution orders, compensation orders, forfeiture/disposal and costs orders
- upon request by or on behalf of a victim, read aloud in open court during the sentencing hearing any admissible parts of a victim impact statement that are relevant to sentencing.

Where appropriate, WorkSafe will provide information in relation to these ancillary orders and submissions to affected parties.

Challenging WorkSafe's enforcement decisions

If WorkSafe has not brought a prosecution within six months of an alleged health and safety, return to work or discrimination offence, any person may request that WorkSafe bring a prosecution. Following a request to bring a prosecution, WorkSafe must – within three months – investigate the matter and advise whether a prosecution has been or will be brought or give reasons why a prosecution will not be brought.

If WorkSafe advises that a prosecution will not be brought, WorkSafe must refer the matter to the DPP if the person requests in writing that WorkSafe do so.

The DPP must consider the matter and advise in writing whether or not the Director considers that a prosecution should be brought. WorkSafe must send a copy of the Director's advice to the person who requested the DPP's review. If WorkSafe declines to follow the advice of the DPP to bring a prosecution, WorkSafe must give reasons for its decision.

WorkSafe provides statistics about the number of reviews requested and the outcomes of those reviews on its website, www.worksafe.vic.gov.au.

Publication of enforcement actions and outcomes

Publishing the nature and outcome of enforcement actions draws attention to the consequences of violating the law. It is a valuable tool for both educating duty holders and deterring non-compliance.

WorkSafe will publish and use enforcement data and information to maximise the outcome of its inspection, investigation and enforcement activity.

For example, WorkSafe:

- publishes information as to the nature and outcome of prosecutions (and where appropriate, other enforcement actions such as enforceable undertakings and letters of caution) to support specific and general deterrence

- informs duty holders in the same or similar industries of the nature and outcome of prosecutions (and, where appropriate, other enforcement actions) and provides advice as to how to prevent similar breaches
- uses information resulting from inspections, investigations and enforcement actions to inform its targeting.

More information about compliance and enforcement

In addition to these general guidelines, WorkSafe publishes further details about its compliance and enforcement program through its Compliance & Enforcement Policy, which can be found at worksafe.vic.gov.au

From time to time, WorkSafe publishes supplementary compliance and enforcement policies, which provide further information about particular aspects of WorkSafe's compliance and enforcement activities. An up-to-date list of all supplementary compliance and enforcement policies is available at worksafe.vic.gov.au
